

Hello,

I am very interested in the iOS Developer position, as I believe I can effectively meet the company's needs and exceed your expectations for this role. Here are some of my key achievements:

- iOS developer with 8 years of commercial experience in Swift/Objective-C. Worked in Apple, Autodesk and Glovo, working with both SwiftUI and UIKit.
- Two years of team-leading experience, managing the full development cycle from gathering product owner requirements to establishing a fully automated release process with high test coverage, detailed analytics and CI/CD.
- Expert in functional reactive programming and declarative UI implementation with multiple contributions to RxSwift and TCA.

Overall, I am not just a doer; I am an achiever. My priority is to create reliable and scalable solutions rather than just getting things done. With extensive experience in both small startups and large corporate projects (over 1 million users), I am ready to tackle any challenge your company may face.

Also, I have looked through your website, your company's values are inspiring! It is extremely important for me to work in an environment that promotes inclusivity and equality. I am excited about the future project challenges and looking forward to overcome them. It really matters to me bring value to the company and see how my solutions impact the end user. So, we would be a great fit for each other.

Please contact me via phone, LinkedIn, or email. Looking forward to our conversation!
